LIST OF JACOBITES WITH SURNAME MacKAY IN THE 1745 REBELLION

---

Anna MacKay, from Isle of Skye

Regiment:

Rank: Non Combatant

Other names used: MacKaye, Anne MacKay, MacDhia (Davidson)

Prisoner no.: 2079

This woman was apparently erroneously called MacKay whereas her real surname was MacDhia. She lived above the Bridge Hole which was used as a prison cell in 1746. See prisoner number 2590. Known as the 'prisoners' nurse'. Assisted Robert Nairn, the Deputy Paymaster, who was badly injured to escape from custody. Her effects were taken from her and she was carried to the guard among a house full of soldiers and the orders were that she should not be allowed to sit or lay down and in that condition she was kept for three days and three nights. The common language she was entertained with she will not nor cannot express. She was at five court-martials, had many promises and many threatenings, such as scourging to tell who had a hand in Mr. Nairn's escape

She was kept for seven weeks thereafter in a common prison and contracted a swelling in her legs that she never got any better.

Other names used:

Prisoner no.: 2081

Youngest brother of Alexander McKay of Achmonie. Surrendered at Inverness on 5 May 1746 to Ludovic Grant of Grant and was imprisoned and sent to London aboard the 'Jane of Alloway'.

Transported to the Barbados.

He was one of the few who succeeded in returning to Scotland.

He escaped as a stowaway to Jamaica, assumed the name MacDonald and became a planter.

Long after he returned home and married.
